

ADVENTURES ON THE ISLE

Out on a recent adventure across our Isle, I found a fantastic place to view our island. Near Appuldurcombe house on the way to the Worsley monument, there is a hill that allows you to see across to Freshwater and Culver. This spot is brilliant for really getting a sense of your place on the island, and understanding the geography.

I recommend taking a walk up here for yourself, and perhaps continuing up-to-the Worsley monument to enjoy a spectator view and read about the monument itself, which was built by the Worsley family.

Happy adventuring,

Trudie
